Reconciliation Management

Streamlining the Account Reconciliation Process

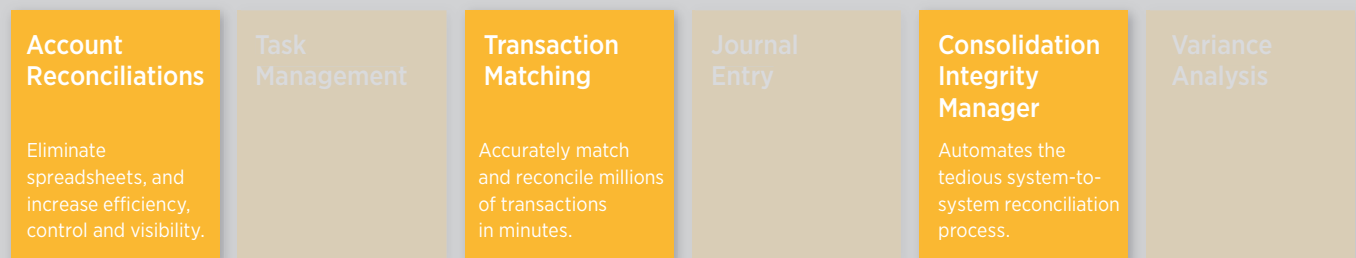

One of the most important internal controls over financial statements and their underlying data are thorough, accurate reconciliations. Finance and accounting leaders understand the high-volumes of data requiring reconciliation, yet so many organizations do not have a streamlined process that minimizes risk. BlackLine Reconciliation Management standardizes, automates, and streamlines all types of reconciliations including balance sheet, bank, credit card, and other operational reconciliations, as well as reconciliations between systems, regulatory standards, and numerous other areas. Move beyond static spreadsheets to streamline with BlackLine Reconciliation Management for accelerating the process of account reconciliations and move toward a confident, fast close.
